

SHOOTINGS AGAIN MARK DEVELOPMENT OF MINE HOLIDAY

Three Rapid-Fire Events Sig-nalize Breaking Up of Strike

PICKET MINER SHOT

Look to President's Ultimatum for "Get-Together" as An Aid

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 15.—Bloodshed marked the progress of the western Pennsylvania bituminous mine "holiday" again today as developments of three rapid-fire events signalized the breaking up of the strike which yesterday resulted in wide-spread rioting and gun play throughout Fayette county.

Carl Stahl, 30, a picket miner was shot in the leg when he attempted to persuade a strike breaker at the More-wood Mine of the H. C. Fricke Coke Company in Westmoreland county, to join the strike, according to reports to police.

Meanwhile, operators and union leaders based their hope of bringing peace to the strife-torn area on three developments, during the night and early today. They were:

1. President Roosevelt's ultimatum to miners and operators to get together on a competitive code and wage agreements; that ultimatum expiring tonight.

2. The immediate action of Governor Gifford Pinchot in rushing state police into the affected areas. The state police have orders to permit peaceful picketing but also to protect and guard miners who withstand the persuasive arguments of the pickets and insist on entering the mine.

3. Disavowal of the "holiday" not only by responsible leaders of the United Mine Workers of America, but also by an apparent majority of the miners affected by the holiday. These latter workers frankly admit their fear of intimidation by "left wing" strike leaders.

Assure Dairymen Code Will Be Drastically Revised

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—(INS)— Farmers from five states who protested the new Philadelphia milk shed marketing agreement today had assurances from Thomas M. Woodward, counsel for the agricultural adjustment administration, who presided at the four-day hearing, that the code will be drastically revised.

Woodward openly indicated he was strongly influenced by the failure of Scott-Powell Dairies to answer charges of using coercive measures against farmers in a bond selling scheme and declared Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has ample powers to subpoena the firm.

Almost at once the department of agriculture at Washington, spurred into action by sensational disclosures at the precedent-setting hearing here, announced changes in forthcoming milk codes.

Hereafter, according to a ruling by George Peek, the A. A. A. administrator, milk codes will not be imposed until after a 30-day trial period, consumers will be protected by maximum price limitations, and the government will scrutinize the books of dairy distributors with a view to ascertaining their profits.

Charles Edwin Fox, former district attorney and counsel for the Milk Code Protest Committee, with a membership of 15,000 farmers, demanded a Federal Trade Commission investigation of the Scott-Powell practices.

The peaceful conclusion of the meeting was believed by interested parties to have abated threats of a milk strike made by some groups of farmers who demanded immediate action.

but the driver, George Harris, of Chester and 57th streets, Philadelphia, escaped injury.

The other truck, Harris says, continued on toward Trenton without stopping.

GRANGE OF MIDDLETOWN CONDUCTS QUESTIONNAIRE

Interesting Program Enjoyed at Regular Meeting of Group

READINGS ARE GIVEN

LANGHORNE, Sept. 15.—The program of Middletown Grange Wednesday evening took the form of a questionnaire, when members gathered in the Friends school-house, here. Mrs.
Jesse G. Webster, Hulmeville, substituted for Mrs. Hannah G. C. Pickering, who was absent.

The questions and requests put to the members gathered included: "Give reasons why a man would want his son to be a farmer," "Is this a good time to buy a farm in Pennsylvania?"
"Do you believe Uncle Sam has turned the corner?" and "What is the greatest need of the American people today?"

In reply to the first question it was stated that a man might want his son to become a farmer because of the independent life afforded the farmer and because of the opportunities for health and for gaining a livelihood.

In reference to the greatest need of the American people today it was said that one of the greatest is faith. The individual, it was said, must have faith in his country and in his job.

Several readings by Edgar A. Guest were given by Mrs. William P. Newbold.

In accordance with the wishes of the master of the Pennsylvania State Grange and the master of the National Grange that all Granges throughout the country hold booster meetings during the latter part of September, it was decided by the local Grange to hold its booster meeting on Wednesday evening, Sept. 27. The literary hour will be open to the public and a special program will be presented. This will be in charge of the lecturer, Mrs. Hannah G. C. Pickering.

GIVES FLOOD HISTORY OF DELAWARE RIVER

Veteran Newspaperman, T. G. Kitchin, Lambertville, Reminisces About Great Floods Over a Long Period of Time

T. G. Kitchin, of Lambertville, veteran newspaperman, last week published the following interesting flood reminiscences in the Hunterdon County Democrat:

Major floods in the Delaware, since the American Revolution, occurred in 1790, 1810, 1841, 1862 and 1903, with a score of smaller ones in between. The ones of 1841 and 1903 did most damage to bridges, particularly in this section.

Part of the Lambertville-New Hope bridge was washed away in 1841, and all but one span of the same structure in 1903. William H. Murray, an old resident of New Hope, told the writer in 1899 of his experiences in the 1841 flood. He was the last person to cross the bridge before the New Hope half was swept from the piers.

"I was about 18 years old at the time," he said, "and had been over to Lambertville on an errand, riding a horse. As I neared the Pennsylvania shore, with water nearly up to the horse's knees, the animal suddenly reared up and refused to go farther.
Striking it sharply with riding whip it made a leap and ran to the shore end.
I was told that several planks had been seen to leave the bridge just before I came over, and I presume that there was an opening, probably large enough for the horse and me to have passed through. Had the animal not reared and then leaped, I might never have been able to tell you this story."

Carried Down to Yardley Mr. Murray also told about George Fell, of Center Bridge, grandfather of County Clerk C. Lloyd Fell, who was caught on that structure as it left the piers and carried down opposite Yardley before he was rescued by a boatman and later returned to his home.

The boatman who rescued him was under the influence of liquor or it is not believed he would have braved the treacherous waters. There was no telegraph or telephone in the valley, nor railroad, in those days, and word of the rescue was carried back up the Jersey side by horsemen. Bon-fires were built and signals given which would indicate that everything was all right. With this vague word his relatives and friends in Pennsylvania had to be content until another day.

The broken line of the Lambertville-New Hope bridge showed on the rebuilt structure until it was destroyed by the 1903 flood. The bridge at Center Bridge was set several feet higher than the old structure, which accounted for its being the only one between Easton and Trenton not totally or partially destroyed in 1903.

During the 1903 flood the water came up as far as hotel in Stockton.
Patrons of the store opposite came in rowboats which were tied to the hitching posts.

Volume Increased 300 Times
It has been estimated by flood experts that about 300 times the low water volume has flowed through the Delaware in some of its biggest floods.
Absence of official data leaves the 1790 flood a bit uncertain, but the stories of old residents, told at the time of the 1841 flood, indicate that it was sev-

ESCAPE AFTER CRASH

LOCK HAVEN, Sept. 15.—The hunt for three victims who fled Rockview Penitentiary developed today into a search for another pair of thugs who assaulted two state policemen. Corporal Powell and Private Knox attached to the Rockview detail were taken to Center County Hospital.

While searching for the fugitives, the officers approached a car parked in the brush, and noticing an automatic and a shot gun in the machine, placed the two occupants under arrest.
The prisoners occupied the rear seat, while the two troopers proceeded with the car, when one of the prisoners suddenly leaned forward and seized the wheel, sending the car over an embankment. Private Knox's head struck the roof. The men then beat Powell and fled.

CORONER INVESTIGATES TWO SUICIDES IN COUNTY

Edmund Recg, 72, Ends Life at Workingmen's Home, Warrington

OTHER, PERKASIE, MAN

Two suicides were reported in Bucks County, Wednesday, and investigated by Coroner John J. Sweeney, M. D., of Doylestown.

One of the cases was at Perkasio, while the other was in Warrington.

Edmund Recg, 72, a carpenter at the Workingmen's Home near Warrington committed suicide by hanging from a sash rope that was tossed over a rafter on the third floor of one of the buildings at the Home.

Despondency caused by idleness enforced by his advanced years, and worry over the condition of his wife, who has been ill for some time, are believed to have been partially responsible for John Keyser, 80, Perkasio, taking his life. He hanged himself at the J. G. Moyer Lumber Co. yard, Perkasio.

The man is survived by his wife, who is ill, and a married daughter, Mrs. John Storch, of Allentown.

Mr. Keyser was employed at the lumber yard until a few years ago, when he was forced to retire because of advanced age. Since that time it had been his habit to spend considerable time in the yard, which is directly behind his house.

A neighbor, William Wenhold, is believed to have been the last person to see Mr. Keyser alive. Wenhold states that about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning he walked through the lumber yard and saw Mr. Keyser sitting under a protecting roof over a pile of lumber in the yard. He seemed cheerful and waved a greeting, Mr.
Wenhold declares.

The man's body was discovered hanging in the shed shortly after 1 o'clock. A rope which authorities have been unable to identify was hanging from a cedar beam that the suicide had apparently placed to form a support.

One end of the beam was supported by a pile of wooden shingles, and the other rested on a rafter of the protecting roof.

The suicide took place in the same shed where Keyser was found several years ago with a bullet wound in his throat. At that time he declared he had been hunting in the lumber yard and had accidentally shot himself while crawling under a lumber pile in search of a rabbit.

two automobiles collided at Jefferson

LANGHORNE BOY DIES; HIT, DRAGGED BY AUTO

Grandson of Chas. Rae Varian Has Both Legs Broken, Head Cut

DRIVER IS BEING HELD

LANGHORNE, Sept. 15.—A small boy of eight years, struck by an automobile as he made his way from the public grammar school here to the playground across the street, suffered fatal injuries when both legs were broken and he was dragged over 40 feet. Death occurred yesterday.

The victim:

Richard Varian Gaw, son of Clarence and Rae Varian Gaw, of Baltimore, Md., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rae Varian, of Pine Summit streets, this borough.

The tragic accident took place at about 8.35 Wednesday morning. The child had entered the school house where he is a student in the third grade, and placed his books in his desk. Leaving the building he started across the street to the playground when hit by an automobile driven by James McDonald, Norristown. The child's head was severely cut when the body was dragged, and over 40 stitches were taken in these cuts at Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., to which institution he was taken by McDonald.

The injuries resulted fatally for the lads early yesterday morning at the Trenton hospital.

The driver of the machine was placed under arrest, and released in $1,000 bail after the accident. He has since the death of the lad had a charge of manslaughter lodged against him. Highway patrolman Stable investigated.

The Gaw boy resided with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Varian here. In addition to his parents he is survived by one brother, Ralph, 12.

ABINGTON MEETING TO MARK ITS ANNIVERSARY

In Operation 250 Years; One of Oldest Meetings in Philadelphia Section

ELABORATE PAGEANT

Abington Friends Meeting, of Jenkintown, will celebrate with impressive exercises and an elaborate costume pageant the 250th anniversary of that meeting, on Saturday, September 23.

This will be one of the most important and interesting occasions in this year of anniversary celebrations. Abington Friends Meeting is one of the oldest meetings in the Philadelphia section, having been started immediately upon the arrival of William Penn in 1682.
Nine Quaker Meetings will take part in this anniversary celebration. They are Abington Orthodox and Abington Hicksite; Horsham; Byberry; Germantown, Orthodox and Hicksite; Frankford, Orthodox and Hicksite; Cheltenham, Orthodox.

Abington Friends Meeting first met at the house of Richard Wall, which he built in 1682. It stands at what is now the corner of Old York Road and Church Road at the foot of Ogontz Hill in Elkins Park, formerly known as Shoemakerstown. This lovely old colonial mansion was recently purchased by the Commissioners of Cheltenham Township and will be preserved in all its beauty and quiet dignity. A memorial tablet will be presented to Cheltenham Township by Abington Monthly Meeting.

The tablet will be unveiled at the Richard Wall House at two p. m. The address of presentation will be made by Horace Mather Lippincott, a member of Abington Meeting, whose ancestor was Richard Wall. Ralph Morgan, a member of the Board of Township Commissioners of Cheltenham, will accept the tablet on behalf of the Township. H. Carroll Brooke, president of the Commissioners, will then introduce Judge Harold G. Knight, of Montgomery County, who will deliver an address.

The scene of further ceremonies will then be transferred to the grounds of Abington Monthly Meeting, half a mile away, at the corner of Greenwood avenue and Meetinghouse Road, a few squares East of the center of Jenkintown. The program at Abington Monthly Meeting grounds will be opened with the reading of an historical paper by Francis R. Taylor, of Cheltenham, dealing with the history of Abington Meeting and touching upon the nine Meetings which have grown out of it. Then will follow an historical pageant in the quaint costumes, manners and speech of the time, re-enacting interesting episodes of early Quaker history, beginning with the Meeting at "Tookany" (Frankford) and ending with an incident of Lucretia Mott and the dramatic trial of the escaped slave, Daniel Dangerfield.

The formal ceremonies of the day will be completed with an address by John Hughes, head-master of Pendle Hill School, who will talk on the present and future state of Quakerism. After this Friends will enjoy picnic suppers (which they are invited to bring with them) under the old oaks on the Meeting House lawn. Coffee will be provided by Abington Friends and ice cream will be for sale on the grounds.

In case of rain the unveiling of the tablet, the pageant and exercises at the Meeting House will all be postponed to the following Seventh Day (Saturday) at the same time. If the weather looks doubtful tune in Station WFI, the Strawbridge & Clothier store, between 1.00 and 1.15 p. m., when announcement will be made as to possible postponement.

FRANCE WANTS ALLIES

France apparently is unwilling to depend entirely upon her army and her frontier fortifications for defense against Hitlerism, or to find adequate security in the League of Nations or the Versailles treaty.

Diplomatic moves in recent months have given clear indications that Paris is searching for allies in preparation for the day when Germany drunk on Hitlerism again may try to cross the Rhine.

M. Herriot, former premier and whose return to this post is being discussed as an early possibility, has been making a holiday visit through Turkey, Russia and Bulgaria. Although he insisted he was "simply a private citizen," this did not prevent political significance being given his tour. If he did have a special political mission, he must be pleased with some of its results.

The apparent aim of France is to combine her friendship for the Soviet with renewal of her old friendship for Turkey. Bulgaria also would be brought into the picture, but in view of the bad feeling between Bulgaria and Turkey, a little more effort may be required to do this.

Moscow newspapers "played up" the Herriot visit, which aroused great enthusiasm among the public and officials. The French statesman in an interview paid a compliment to Turkey by commenting approvingly on the reforms and general progress he noted in that country.

The chasm between Russia and France apparently has been completely bridged. An understanding with the Soviet will greatly strengthen the French position in central Europe. But additional friendships are wanted by France, and these are being sought.

The old system of alliance and counter-alliances with all of the evils and dangers that this form of supposed security involves, is being revised.

THE BUS PROBLEM

That there is a proper place in transportation for motor trucks and buses is a fact recognized by the American public. This is proved by the increasing use being made of these vehicles.

In charging an attempt to legislate them out of existence, speakers before the International Automotive Congress in Chicago drew an inaccurate picture of the situation in the United States, at least. If an attempt of this kind is being made it has not met with much success. Nor is there any chance that it will.

There is growing recognition, however, of a need that the truck bus business be regulated in a way to serve the greatest public good. This has not yet been accomplished although some progress can be claimed. The problem is one which can not be solved except after much study and experiment. It bears a vital relation to the national transportation question.

Eventually, it is to be believed, this matter will be worked out satisfactorily. It is the public interest that must be served in this undertaking rather than any individual transportation means.

"Doughboys" is an excellent name, except that they weren't boys and weren't the ones that got the dough.

Honest value

YOU'LL find some gasolines "all dressed up" too. But not ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. It has never been necessary to deck out this fuel in trick selling points or fancy phrases.

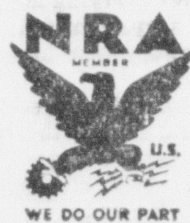

We believe that motorists want facts rather than circus stunts to help them choose the gasoline best suited to their cars. Here are some facts about ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH that may help you:

1—Tests indicate that the NEW WHITE FLASH is the finest motor fuel ever offered at or near its price.

2—Motorists like it. In Pennsylvania, for instance, it outsells every other gasoline by more than 2 to 1.

3—We believe it will prove as satisfactory in most automobiles as extra-priced fuels; and save a lot of money on every filling of the tank.

That's all. We're not going to shout meaningless claims. But we do think if you try WHITE FLASH—you'll like it!

HULMEVILLE FAVORITE FOR TOMORROW'S GAME

Hulmeville A. A., winners of the Lower Bucks County League, will be the favorite when that nine clashes with the St. Ann's A. A. team, champions of the Bristol Twilight League, on St. Ann's field tomorrow afternoon.

Hulmeville holds the slight edge because of its hitting power. On the defense and on the mound, the St. Ann's team can match the Lower Bucks Champs but lack the hitting power of the Blackmen.

However, the Saints have battled against the Hulmeville hurler, "Ike" Watson, when he was in the Twilight League two years ago and know his pitching form, while the Hulmevilleites are unfamiliar with the hurling of either of the St. Ann's moundsmen, "Mike" DeRisi, or "Charlie" Whyno.

The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30 o'clock.

WE WERE glad to see the revival of the municipal tennis tournament this week after a lapse of about seven years . . . and the enthusiasm shown both by the players and spectators . . . A tournament of this kind is what this town needed to stimulate this wonderful game.

With the exception of a few regulars, there is a comparatively small number of tennis players around here . . . but the interest shown so far in the singles games played this week will go far to create new blood and some fine competition in the future.

Great credit should go to Messrs. Doron Green and William H. H. Fine, also Herbie Lawrence and "Pank" Fine, for their work in getting this tournament started in such short time . . . Some one suggested the tournament a week ago and these men got busy . . .

Saturday should furnish some fine games both at the Elks courts on Buckley street and Dave Landreth's private court on Radcliffe street . . . The public is invited to attend to witness these games.

We understand the ladies are working on plans to hold a tournament of their own . . . A meeting will be held at the home of Miss Louise Lawrence, 338 Radcliffe street, tonight at seven o'clock . . . Any young lady desirous of entering this tournament may do so by notifying Miss Lawrence.

Gives Flood History
Of Delaware River

eral feet higher at certain well known points than any of the floods which followed it.

The 1903 flood destroyed bridges at Wilburtha, Washington Crossing, Lambertville, Raven Rock (open span), Byram, Frenchtown (two spans), Milford, (one span, replaced by remaining span from Lambertville), Riegelsville and Martin's Creek. These were all rebuilt. This flood also washed out many miles of the Belvidere Railroad track, and banks of the canal on the opposite side of the river.

A flood in 1877, which caused the Milford train disaster, was not so serious as some others, excepting that high water weakened the piers of a bridge just below Milford, allowing it to collapse under the weight of the Oswego Express (last evening train) into the river and drowning several persons, mostly of the train crew. It had then rained for several days, the ground being soaked deep. The same night a similar mishap, known as the "Pennypacker" disaster, cost lives of a large number of persons at Kimberlton, Pa. They were returning from the Pennypacker reunion, held that day, and an undetermined pier sent the train off the bridge, killing 35 or more persons.

The greatest flood disaster of modern times in this section of the United States was at Johnstown, Pa., on May 31, 1889, where 2142 persons were killed and $4,000,000 worth of property destroyed. Through railroad service was tied up for eleven days.

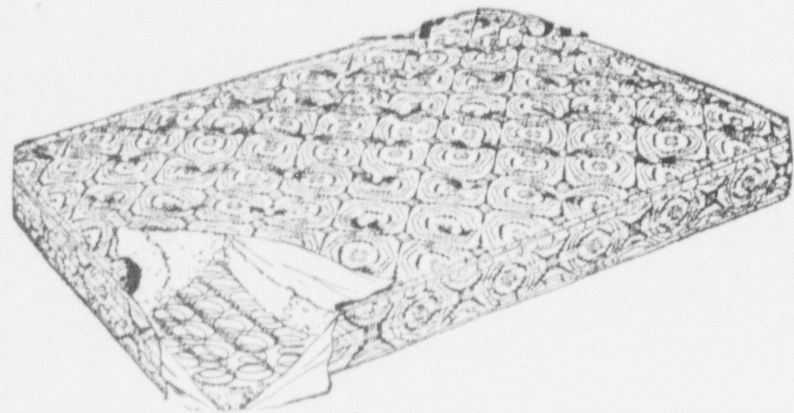

Small streams do not always gain in velocity like large streams. The Delaware flows normally at about 2½ miles per hour; sometimes 3, but in flood periods it reaches as much as 5, 6, 7, 8 or even 9 miles per hour. This coupled with the fact that a 10-foot rise allows several times the normal volume to pass accounts for the great rush and consequent damage done along the river.
